Scaring Fish.

A curious effect of the war in the far east is the migration of sharks to the European waters. The submarine explosions are supposed to have frightened the creatures or perhaps disgusted them.

At any rate they have passed through the Suez canal and been making havoc among the fishes of the Adriatic. Even the invasion of the Black sea has been feared.

If this be so, the petition of the residents of the Cape to the government to regulate target practice in the navy in the waters around Buzzards bay and adjoining waters in summer is not unreasonable.—Boston Globe.

Marthas Vineyard fishermen say that the naval target practice off the island "scares the fish." The summer residents at Cottage City say the loss of income is more than made up to the islanders by what the fleet spends ashore. The remaining question is—who gets the money?—Boston Globe.

HAY-BOND TREATY.

Was Considered in Secret Session of Senate.

MUCH OPPOSITION DEVELOPED.

Some Amendments Adopted and Treaty Not Yet Ratified.

The Hay-Bond treaty with Newfoundland was the subject of an extended executive session of the senate yesterday. This treaty had been amended in the foreign relations committee to meet objections raised by New England senators, and the amendments were submitted to Premier Bond of Newfoundland, who was really the original negotiator of the treaty on the part of Great Britain.

During the session of the senate yesterday, some amendments were adopted, but the treaty itself was not ratified and remains pending, it is understood, on some formalities by the senate yet to be taken.

The committee amendments adopted are the result of correspondence between Senator Lodge and Premier Bond. On the floor Senators Lodge and Hale led in support of ratification of the treaty. The opposition was general, and in the extended debate, covering nearly three hours, it was difficult to predict what would be the outcome. While many more amendments, however, remain to be voted on, it is understood that the treaty may be ratified at the present session.

Some New England senators believe, however, that if further amendments in the interest of the United States are adopted, the treaty will not be approved by Premier Bond.

Yesterday's debate developed that the treaty had been very materially amended in committee. Article one of the treaty as originally negotiated provided that fishing vessels entering the waters of Newfoundland shall have the privilege of purchasing bait at all times, and the privilege of touching and trading in supplies in Newfoundland on the same terms as are levied on Newfoundland fishing vessels.

Article two provided for the admission of certain articles from Newfoundland into the United States free of duty, and in the original treaty provided for codfish, coal oil, whale oil, unmanufactured whalebone, seal blubber, tanning, salmon, trout and salmon trout, lobsters, cod roes, tongues and sounds, ores of metals and slates from the quarry. In committee, cod oil was stricken out, and there was inserted whale meat, glue stock and by-products of the whaling industry, coal and coal oil.

It was expressly stated however, that cod oil and codfish, and herring, smoked, dried, salted, pickled, frozen or otherwise, are not included in the provisions of the article. The senate amended this article by striking out ores of metals and coal and coal oil, the products of Newfoundland mines, and slates from the quarry untrimmed.

Correspondent Says Herring Vessels Should Not Stay So Late.

Messrs. Editors:—It is to be hoped that it will not be considered either as ridiculous or impertinent on the part of one who has spent many years in this far northern region to ask you to be good enough to publish the following remarks and observations in reference to a matter of paramount importance to people here and owners of vessels at the port of Gloucester:

The herring fishery in this part of "ye ancient colony" being the only industrial resource of the people, it is needless to say that it gladdens the heart of many when American vessels begin to arrive to secure cargoes of herring, as it is then the almighty dollar is put in circulation and gobbled up with avidity.

At the same time it is to be deplored that owners of such vessels at your port and elsewhere cannot seem to realize the risk and danger to life and property in sending vessels down here during the month of January, when they are likely to be frozen in for a period of three or four months.

With some 10 or 12 vessels frozen in here for the past two seasons, one would think that this would be sufficient warning and an eye opener to deter anybody sending vessels down here after December 13.

But in judging from the present aspect of matters it now appears we are going to have a repetition of the old story of vessels being frozen up here and in the Gulf. To continue the herring fishery after December 31, on this part of the coast is a most hazardous and dangerous business to vessel owners, and fishermen alike, as it invariably happens that the latter lose all their nets in the ice. The writer of this communication contends that vessel owners and fishermen would display good, sound, common, practical sense by winding up the voyage on December 25 of each year, instead of protracting it until the last of January, when a lot of property is lost and what is of more consequence, lives that cannot be replaced.

FISHERMEN'S EXPERIENCE.

Boston, Feb. 9.—Eleven fishing schooners, covered with ice from mast-head to waterline, arrived yesterday afternoon from the Georges fishing banks. Captain Daley of the schooner Muriel said that the wind blew 60 miles an hour Tuesday and it was impossible for anyone to remain on deck for more than a few minutes at a time. Captain Mero of the Flirt said that it seemed almost a miracle that the schooners escaped serious accidents. The fleet brought in 500,000 pounds of mixed fish.
